By E. G.

Ding-dong! ... In the early hours of a recent morning the theologists of Anglican College, University of British Columbia, were roused from their sleep by bells, the bells of the building's fire alarm. Somebody had touched off the alarm accidentally — or rather "accidentally on purpose," in the opinion of the red-eyed theologians.

The bells rang continually from 3 a.m. until 8 a.m. when the janitor arrived. This was due to some mechanical defect, which, says the Ubysses, "impractical theologians were unable to locate." "The helpless creatures," the paper goes on, "formed a furious posse to locate the practical joker, while others sought to muffle the din by stuffing the bells with socks, gloves, unmentionables, elastic side boots, and pulp fiction." (Imagine theologians reading pulp fiction.)

The culprit was found after 9 o'clock. His only comment was: "Meow!"

It Comes in Cycles ... A cynical columnist in The Gateway runs the following under the heading "Cycle of a Joke":

Birth: A freshman thinks it up and laughs aloud, waking up two juniors in the back row.

Age 5 minutes: Freshman tells it to a senior, who answers, "It's funny, but I've heard it before."

Age 1 day: Senior turns it into college paper as his own.

Age 2 days: Editor thinks it's terrible.

Age 10 days: Editor has to fill paper, so joke is printed.

Age 1 month: Thirteen college papers reprint it.

Age 3 years: Non-college paper prints the joke in "Lighter Vein".

Age 10 years: Seventy-six radio comedians discover it simultaneously, tell it, accompanied by howls of mirth from the boy in the orchestra ($5 a howl).

Age 100 years: Professors start telling it in class.

Entrance Requirements ... A Harvard sociology professor with a sense of humour feels that too much attention is paid by universities to the student's intellect and too little attention to his character and morals.

To quote from the Harvard Crimson: "The entrance examination would consist of having hundreds of beautiful chorus girls, scantily clothed, lounging around the Yard, beside tables of delectable edibles. Any prospective student who possessed the moral character to withstand the seductive charms of both the women and food for three days would then be eligible to attend (the college); provided that he was also a mental genius."

This, however, would only be the start of the test of the student's "withstanding" ability in the professor's ideal college. During the next twenty years the student would be taught by the methods used on the Brahma caste of the Hindus. The student's personal life, moreover, "would be regulated according to the gentle rules of the tougher monastic orders."

Headline of the Week ... It seems that out at the University of Alberta the freshmen have been rehearsing a play called, "Teapot on the Rocks". The Gateway, student paper, runs a story about the rehearsals and heads it: Freshmen Polish Teapot on Rocks.

No quotes or anything.

Subject: "Facts and Fictions of New World Order"

On Monday, December 2nd, at 8.30 p.m., in Room 44 of the Arts Building, Mr. M. J. Bonn, visiting professor in Economics and Political Science, will give the first of a series of four lectures which will be open to the public. The others will be on Thursday, December 5th, Monday, December 9th, and Thursday, December 12th, in the same place and at the same hour.

His topic will be "Facts and Fictions of a New World Order" and he will discuss the efforts of the Axis Powers to identify their purely temporary military occupation with a permanent new world order based on novel principles. In his first lecture he will deal with Hitler's plantation schemes — the plan of taking away the Ukraine from Russia and settling it with Germans and his attempt to cover up its failure by the expulsion of Poles, Jews, Czechs and Lorrainers from their native lands. In the second he proposes to analyze plans for the revival of the continental system in an attempt to establish a continental block west of the Russian frontier from which Great Britain is to be rigorously excluded — a kind of imitation of Napoleon's temporary accomplishment. The third lecture will be a discussion dealing with the plans of the Axis Powers to cut up Africa in order to bolster the continental system and

JAMES LAUDS GRADUATES

Principal Speaks at Banquet in Gymnasium

Addresses Those Who Aided in Its Completion

Last night, Principal James addressed those who had played a part in the successful completion of the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium-Armoury.

Dr. James, after thanking those assembled on behalf of the University, remarked that the importance of physical education had been the subject of much discussion of late but emphasized that the problem was not a new one, citing the Greeks as an example. He regretted that the speeches which Greek University professors must have made on the subject have not been preserved, but added that the tenor of their remarks could be easily imagined. The contrasting views of an Athenian disciple of Socrates, and a Spartan contemporary must have led to many bitter controversies. "We are somewhat politer than our Greek counterparts," he claimed, "but the improvement is very slight." The American colleges in which football is a major subject could well be compared to the Spartans, while the football-less University of Chicago is the spiritual descendant of the Athenian school.

Dr. James said that he would not attempt to solve the problem, as his main point was not the question of the controversy, but the measure of agreement. Spartans and Athenians both realized that a sound mind is an essential condition for a healthy body. For us, the necessity of physical fitness is greater now than at any time in the past.

"Realizing this," we at McGill, who are responsible for the operation of the University, recognize our good fortune," he added. He commented on the happy coincidence that this gymnasium should have been completed at this time when it is so much needed, suggesting that perhaps it was not altogether coincidence, but a highly prophetic vision.

He traced the history of the conception and completion of the building, and closed with a toast to those whose hard work had made it possible.

"Gentlemen, I give you the graduates of McGill University."

Mock Parliament Denies Women Right to Equality

Opposition Party, Led by Bross, Is Victorious

At the assembly of last night's Mock Parliament the motion that "Men and Women should be admitted to all Faculties, activities and organizations at McGill on an equal basis" was voted in favor of the leaders of the opposition.

Margaret Currie, winner of the Bovey Shield, acted as Prime Minister upholding the affirmative side of the motion. Joan McFarlane acted as Minister of Justice on behalf of the female argument. Stewart Ross, runner-up in the Bovey Shield Debate, led the opposition, supported by Deputy party leader, Lewis Manolson.

Horace G. Baugh opened the session, outlining the form of procedure and explaining rules and restrictions. The members of parliament as well as the independents had to identify the constituency they represented before they could address the House as no speaker could be referred to by name. The speaker also stated that bribing was strictly prohibited on pain of ejection by the Regent of Arms, Alex Stalker. The members were at liberty to change the sides they were supporting should the arguments presented not meet with their approval.

The Prime Minister, Margaret Currie, stated that her arguments were chiefly directed against the McGill Union, the Political Economy Club and the Faculty of Engineering. She devoted most of her discussion of attempting to prove that women were the intellectual equals of men. She declared that democracy was held up by this restriction, temporarily at least, and that therefore women should fight for the abolition of the petty bonds that forced her into the position of man's mental inferior.

Stewart Bross on the opposing side, opened his speech by saying that nature had intended women to be housewives and that these women were opposing nature and society by entering the fields of sport and business that were intended for man, by virtue of his admittedly superior physical ability. It was out of respect for woman's fragility and inferior physical and mental capacities that man has throughout the ages protected her and acted as her guardian. If woman demands equal rights with man in the business and social worlds, she stands to lose marks of civility and courtesy which have long been her birthright. Bross concluded his argument by saying that since Eve was made from Adam's rib, therefore woman is but a part of man, and according to Euclid, a part can never be equal to the whole. ... Q. E. D.

The meeting ended in a noisy fray with independents, presbyterians, anarchists, the Regent of Arms and the engineers all stating their opinions and resolutions at one and the same time. The Speaker called the meeting to order and a vote was taken in favor of the Opposition.

SOCIETE FRANCAISE FEATURES PLAYS

Club Holds Second Meeting in R.V.C. Common Room

French songs and scenes from well-known French plays featured the second meeting of the R.V.C. Societe Francaise held yesterday afternoon in the common room. Madame Furness and Professor d'Hauterserve of the French Department, and Mrs. Forsythe were guests at the tea. Frances Cox, president of the club, was mistress of ceremonies.

Second year students led off the entertainment by presenting the third scene from "La Voyage de M. Perrichon" and following this two songs, "Madame de la Marquise" and "Je Verrai autour de la Table Ronde," were sung by a group of freshettes. The first act of "L'Harnani," entitled "La Vertu Triomphe Toujours," was then presented in costume by fourth year students. The junior year representatives ended the program with a song "Il Etait une Bergere" to which they added an original parody, "Il Etait un Professeur."

F.O. SPRENGER DIES IN ACTION IN AIR BATTLE

Was Arts and Law Student at McGill

NOTED AS SWIMMER

Called Up by R.C.A.F. First Day of War

Flying Officer William P. Sprenger, R.C.A.F., well known McGill law graduate, a swimmer of note on McGill teams during his career as a student in the Law Faculty, was called up the day war was declared and had served for some time in the defence of London. He was killed on Tuesday it was learned from the Chief of Air Staff at Ottawa. His death was "probably as the result of enemy action."

At the age of 18 he entered McGill where he took his Arts and Law degrees. While at McGill he was a member of the Scarlet Key Society and he also spent a year in the C.O.T.C. but he was most noted as a member of the McGill swimming teams.

On the 3rd of September he reported for active service with the 115th fighter squadron. After further training he went overseas in June with the First Canadian Fighter Squadron.

On November 18th F.O. Sprenger was heard in a broadcast from England in which he described bailing out of his stricken plane at 1,500 feet over Kent and his sensations during the seven minute descent. He was known by his officers to be always among the first to enter his plane and take off when ordered into action. He was only 29 at the time of his death having left McGill only six years ago.

He kept up his interest in swimming and became President of the Quebec section of the Canadian Swimming Association. When he left McGill he entered the legal firm of Mathewson, Wilson and Smith, later joining Canadian Industries Limited.

Arts Undergrad Group Plans Annual Smoker

The final debate of the Arts Debating Society preliminaries will be held on Tuesday, December 3rd, in Room 12 of the Arts Building at 5 p.m., when the topic will be, "Resolved that hereditary titles should be granted in Canada." The affirmative will be upheld by B. Baitle, M. Weiner, L. Horlich, and D. Islenko of 2nd year and J. Riddle, H. Farmer, A. MacDonald, and G. Swinton will argue the negative.

The speakers will not work together as a team, but will be judged on their individual merits, and the two best men from each team will be chosen for the interclass team. The speeches will each be 7 minutes in length except that the first speaker of the affirmative will have 5 minutes for his first speech and 2 minutes at the end of the debate in which to refute the arguments of the last speaker of the negative.

If any McGill students have any information of the whereabouts of a black wrist watch, lost at Eaton's warehouse Saturday, just before the parade moved off, will they please phone DE. 3610.

There will be no questioning the opinion that if everything which we hold dear is to survive, it is imperative for Britain to win this war. That we shall win the war is becoming more and more certain each day that the fight continues. However, to make this fact an absolute certainty, it is necessary for Britain to have every possible assistance as quickly as is possible.

Britain needs planes and more planes. She also needs money with which to pay for those planes. We, students at one of the foremost universities in Canada, can help the war effort in a tangible manner by providing some of the money with which to buy those bombers and fighters.

It has been suggested by several student organizations on the campus that a campaign be conducted at McGill among all the students in order to raise money towards a Spitfire fighting plane. A letter, requesting action on the part of the Students' Society, has been sent to the Editor-in-Chief of the Daily by more than ten per cent. of the students at the university. A group of interested students have canvassed opinion and suggested a campaign among students, staff, governors and graduates for the purpose of presenting the British Government with a Spitfire in the name of McGill University. The Students' Executive Council which must authorize campus campaigns of students will no doubt consider this suggested drive in the near future and will act according to the desires of the student body.

Heartily endorsing the sympathy for the Allied cause which has prompted these spontaneous outbursts of enthusiasm, we nevertheless question their practicability. Three thousand students at McGill University, no matter how keen, no matter how generous of money, time, and energy, can hardly hope to raise sufficient money to purchase a Spitfire fighter which costs twenty-three thousand and five hundred dollars. It strikes us that the staff, governors and graduates of McGill are unlikely to make up the difference between that amount and the two, three, or even four thousand dollars which would be raised by the students.

There are approximately twenty-five thousand students attending universities throughout the Dominion of Canada, and even though there is no national body at the present time which can claim to represent all these students, there is a medium through which every Canadian university student can be contacted. That medium is the Canadian University Press.

The Daily is in a position to propose to every student attending a Canadian university that it is the obligation and the duty of each and every one of them to partake in a national campaign for one, two or even three Spitfire fighters to be presented to the British Government in the name of all Canadian university students.

Campus newspapers are in a position to ensure the success of such a drive as they are able to reach every portion of the particular campus on which they are circulated and consequently a Spitfire campaign promoted by the college journals on Canadian campuses would undoubtedly prove successful. Contributions would naturally be accepted from members of the staff or governing body and graduates of these colleges.

American university papers exchange issues with the McGill Daily and other Canadian university journals and consequently such a campaign might easily assume an international aspect with the added contributions of sympathetic students in the United States.

The war which is being waged over Britain today is a war for honour, truth and justice. It is a war which is being waged with planes—fighters and bombers. Surely it is fitting that at least one of those Spitfire fighters bear the name of the university students of North America.

Comment from Columbia

By Henry W. Patterson

Woe Is Me!

New York City, November 28.—A columnist is a wacky duck with nothing on his mind, and blessed little time to say it! Still, he must exhaust one topic (and run the risk of doing the same to his readers), or deal with several ideas, briefly and perhaps a little superficially. Thus, if he chooses the former method, his column may be called dull or too scholarly; and, if he employs the latter, his words will be dubbed flighty, flippant, or shallow. Today I want to ramble. Are you coming?

Tough Test

There is too much soft living at Harvard. The students are fat and lazy; they live luxuriously in their separate houses, and their beds are too soft. What they need is a return to the Spartan way of life. This would make them fit to lead the United States in time of crisis. . . . So thinks Professor Pittman Sorokin of Harvard. Education must lead the way to a restoration of morality, he maintains. So he is looking for what he calls the "incorruptible" college-man. His test for such a man would be that the youth resist for three days the temptation of scantily-clad Hollywood beauties put on luxurious lounges near tables piled high with ultra-rich food. The successful candidate would then begin as much as forty-eight years of monastic-training at "Genius Tech" for government leadership! Seriously though the Prof. may have something here.

Life Is Cruel

Each night in the Bright Light area, gangs of ragged urchins entertain amused onlookers with juvenile jiggerbugging. Amid wild singing and clapping of hands, they swing it out on the wide sidewalk. If police object because they interfere with pedestrian traffic, the kids just move elsewhere and begin a brand-new jamboree. Coins rattle on the pavement, and when the routine is over, the entertainers scurry to capture their earnings. Their faces are dirty, their bodies thin; their speech is harsh and crude, their attitude one of belligerency and suspicion, their eyes are empty . . . but they will exist.

Music à la carte

Eating-places in this city can have music piped to them from a central office via a type of telephone. This service costs little, and guests appreciate it. Most agencies play records of operettas, semi-classics, and string arrangements of modern dance-tunes. Even nickelodeons are run this way now! As the nickel is put in, a pleasant female voice requests your number. You select from a long list of over one hundred selections. This idea should go well in Montreal. There is a certain thrill in having a conversation with a girl whom you can easily imagine to be free, blonde, and under twenty-one. What say, men?

Advanced Journalism

The most sensational newspaper in New York City is the weekly rag called "Hobo News". The boys peddle it up and down in the Times Square district. This week's issue has a seventy-two point banner-headline screaming "TO HELL WITH HITLER." And underneath is a polished bit of caricature depicting Der Fuehrer with a wolf's body.

By the way, that experiment in journalism I told you about three weeks ago, may be going on the rocks. The Daily News columnists have hinted of late that their concern is going to take over P.M. Of course they will make it their afternoon paper, and will undoubtedly take advertising. We hope this is all wishful thinking, but New Yorkers just won't buy a five-cent paper!

Pigskin Pundit

Columbia's football squad has had a good season. Out of nine games they have lost but two (to Cornell and to Syracuse). They have thrashed Maine, Dartmouth, Georgia, Wisconsin, Colgate, and Brown. They tied with Navy. Defensively the Lions had the best line in the East. Statistics prove that! Only once has a touchdown been scored through the line against them. Over a dozen times they have thrown back enemy thrusts within their own ten-yard stripe.

I Love a Parade

Macy's annual Christmas Parade on Thanksgiving Day (November 21) featured a huge Superman filled with helium-gas and leashed to a ground-crew of fifty stalwarts. As the eighty-foot monster swayed past, many a poor dog's chassis trembled. Screams and squeals of delight washed up and down the long lines of spectators as Laffo, a seventy-five foot clown down in yellow and green, Hippo, a thirty-five foot mammoth, green, plump, and splashed with pinkish dots, and a tall Uncle Sam were propelled through the canyons of the city. Although overshadowed, old Santa Claus was not forgotten! He was a seventy-foot helium balloon which kept trying to sit down. Grinning policemen herded starry-eyed children back to the sidewalks each time they broke through to cheer some favorite in the long procession of gay floats, balloon giants, and cavorting clowns.

Works by Bach-Bantok, Brahms, and Dvorak will be performed at the next concert of the Montreal Orchestra, Sunday afternoon at His Majesty's Theatre. Douglas Clarke will conduct.

The soloist of the afternoon is to be Kathleen Parlow, who is regarded by many as the world's foremost woman violinist. Miss Parlow will play Brahms' Violin Concerto in D Major.

The orchestra will perform the Choral-prelude, "Sleepers Awake" by Bach-Bantok and Dvorak's Symphony No. 5 in E Minor from the New World.

CONSERVATORIUM ORCHESTRA

The season's first concert by the orchestra of the McGill Conservatorium will be presented in R.V.C. tonight at 8.30 with R. de H. Tupper, secretary of the music faculty, conducting.

The main item on the program is Mendelssohn's Scotch Symphony. Also included are: La Folia (for violin and orchestra) by Correll; Concertino (for clarinet and orchestra) by Weber; Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto (first movement); as well as compositions by Schubert and Elgar.

'H.M.S. PINAFORE' AT Y.M.H.A.

A bevy of beautiful damsels and a boatload of British tars, make up the chorus of the Y.M.H.A. production of "H.M.S. Pinafore" to be presented Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings at the Y.M.H.A. Auditorium, Mount Royal avenue west.

Written and composed by Gilbert & Sullivan, England's "Masters of rhyme and rhythm," this operetta is under the capable direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norris, formerly of the D'Oyley Carte Company of England. Holding the tenor and soprano leads are Bernard Figler and Estelle Fish. Mr. Figler is a member of the Dominion Opera Guild, while Miss Fish, well known coloratura soprano, excelled herself in last year's Gilbert & Sullivan production.

The comic roles of the Captain of the Pinafore and Sir Joseph Porter, K.C.B., First Lord of the Admiralty, are taken by Alfred Krasnick and Henry Bloom respectively. Wm. Aaronson enacts a character sketch of the hunchback, the villainous un-able seaman, "Dick Deadeye". The beloved ballad, "Little Buttercup" is sung by Esther Lewis, and the ever-present cousin Hebe is played by Claire Tolmasky. Sol Cohen plays the Boatswain, and Lou Herscovitch the carpenter.

SPITFIRE CAMPAIGN

Editor-in-Chief,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

It has come to our notice that several student organizations on the campus have already approved a Spitfire Fund campaign to be conducted at McGill among representatives of those organizations, and that a great number of students in the university are very much in favor of such a project should it be adapted to include all students at McGill.

The First Canadian Division in England, who are already sacrificing all for the war have turned over a day's pay for this great fund. Again, out on the Pacific coast, the U.B.C. has turned over all their returnable caution money to the Red Cross; and even here in Montreal, within a stone's throw of the McGill campus, the students of Montreal High School are giving up their time to wash other people's dogs and windows to raise money for a Spitfire. And yet, in spite of all this, to date the only visible reaction on the campus, to the war, has been the "Red Martlet" of late disrepute. Let us too deny ourselves, both for the sake of the Empire, and in order to restore McGill's good name both here in Montreal and in all Canada, and call a meeting of the Students Society to resolve that a portion of our returnable caution money (say one or two dollars), should be turned over to Lord Beaverbrook's Spitfire Fund.

Signed,

(More than 300 students—Ed.)

"What Price Democracy?"

Editor,
McGill Daily,
Sir:

Some recent very timely letters concerning the decision of the University to suspend an undergraduate, who felt unable in conscience of mind to undertake military training, has, I believe, raised an issue of very fundamental importance.

Messrs. Lloyd-Smith and Stevenson have mentioned student apathy, which like the poor is supposed always to be with us, but I cannot help believing they have expressed a feeling of concern and sympathy by the student body as a whole on the treatment of our conscientious objector. After all, surely Mr. Stewart cannot be the only person here with a conscience, though he evidently has the courage of his convictions and expresses them in a form contrary, perhaps, to the views of the great majority of us.

This action by the authorities stands in extraordinary contrast to the attitude of the British Government. Had a nation, fighting for its life amid the most devastating horrors of war, reacted like the University by demanding absolute compliance to its decree who could help but understand. Does not the fact that they did not express in essence the character of the British peoples and their clear evaluation of the concepts for which they are fighting? A man's conscience, air, is not something to be lightly tampered with; it is his subliminal possession and in the most heroic of deeds has written the greatest pages of our history. Indeed, is not the age-old combat of tyranny and justice, in reality, man's struggle for liberty of conscience and the ideals which make for the dignity and rights of man?

What are we fighting for, anyway? Essentially for survival, but this generation is not repeating the sordid slaughter and sacrifice of all it has to offer to the rah-rah, pseudo-patriotic jingoism of the old flag-wavers, but in the faith and hope of something better in which liberty of conscience, we are told, is not the least.

As in the past, the University was a haven for truth in a world of superstition, so should it retain that unprejudiced intellectual character in a totalitarian threatened world of dictated thought. No other institution in this country has the same opportunity or duty, and at no time was the fulfillment of that trust more vital. McGill is the last place from which such action should have come.

The issue is therefore clear and pressing. The British Government in its attitude is not merely being

Why? A BANKING CONNECTION

STUDENTS are not supposed to be outstanding in the matter of saving money, but some we know do manage to put aside a little from their allowance.

These students are doing themselves a good turn, not only because of the money put by, which may be quite small, but because, by doing business with the Bank, they are building up a connection that will probably be of great value in the years to come when they enter business or professional life.

AT MAC. Sat. 14th—Company "B" vs. Macdonald.

Each team is composed of 4 doubles teams and 2 singles players. These will be numbered 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 and 6 in approximate order of their proficiency. Each doubles team and each singles player will play his opposite number. Winner will be best two out of three games in each case. There will thus be six matches each time two companies meet. Two points will be scored for each doubles game and one point for each singles game won. All points so scored will be added to the regular Company total.

SWIMMING AND WATER POLO:

Following the ever-increasing interest in swimming, an Inter-Company Meet has been arranged for December 31st. It is confidently expected that this will draw a big entry and if enough are interested it is hoped to promote an Inter-Company Water Polo League. Plans for both these aquatic events are well under way and only student co-operation is needed to set them going. Anyone interested should sign up at once for the Meet, as those in charge of the arrangements are anxious to gain some idea of the volume of entries. The lists will be posted in the Men's Locker Room. Water Polo enthusiasts are reminded that they can practise on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5:00-6:45 in the Knights of Columbus Pool, and swimmers can practise at the same time on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The proposed program for the Swimming Meet is:

- 50 yards Free Stroke.
- 75 yards Breast Stroke.
- 100 yards Back Stroke.
- 4x25 yards Relay.

WEIGHT-LIFTING

The second weight-lifting class will be held today at 6:00 p.m. in the B.W. and F. Room. The lifting platform, which was in process of assembly at the last workout, is now in a condition. Two complete sets of weights are at the disposal of the body-building enthusiasts and an expert instructor will be on hand.

Those who turned up for the first practice on Wednesday of this week will assure you they had a really good workout. A regular course of exercises is being followed and positive results can be expected by all those who are regular.

Students who intend to keep up the business of body-building must only get out of bed in the morning and go to the gymnasium. They will find the standard body measurements. From time to time the measurements are to be repeated and a record of all changes kept.

In the same way a record of life will be kept posted on a black board so that those in charge can have before them a complete record of their progress.

Take all other body-building or weightlifting in order to any student who wishes to study regardless of the particular reason for wanting to exercise.

VOLLEY BALL

With only a few minutes to play in the preliminary games of the Inter-Platoon Volley Ball League many teams are already looking forward to the semi-finals and the final. Since no two teams from the same platoon played in the same section it is quite possible that more than one team will be representing some of the Companies. Should this happen it is possible that teams in the same Company may be pitted against each other. As such a team from each platoon will be not for itself as for the Inter-Platoon Championship. If concerned they will negotiate with the Inter-Platoon Chairman.

calling all co-eds

by winnifred

Equality for women seems to be becoming a by-word around the campus. Several days ago it was decided to hold inter-section sports in R.V.C. instead of interclass, following up the idea that the men have been using in their inter-company combats. The plan is an excellent one for it provides an opportunity for each section to get together and do something really constructive in the way of sport.

Several sports have suffered during the past two months due to the very full time tables of some of those who would be interested in taking part. However it is hoped that this new system will solve the difficulty by utilizing the twenty-five minutes before and after the military training. Moreover by having representatives chosen from each section these girls should do much to promote interest and to spur their group on to greater effort.

All competition in this new plan will be arranged in the manner most convenient to all concerned. There may be round robin tournaments, an elimination meet, and no doubt the swimming will be completed in one night with outside judges.

The success of the plan depends on the co-operation of the coeds, and it is hoped that some really first class teams may be the result of this new system.

Last Thursday the R.V.C. Badminton Club got their Murray League schedule well under way when they played their first game against the St. Albans club. Mary Mainwaring, Cynthia Percy, Kathleen Durrell, and Margaret McGarry represented the coeds, but unfortunately suffered defeat. Next Thursday night will see the second game of the series being played off and it is hoped that with their added practice and the fact that it is a home game the coeds should prove a good match for their opponents.

This Tuesday night all coeds who are interested in representing R.V.C. in the game against St. Albans are urged to attend as the team is not a set team and others may have the opportunity of playing against first class opponents.

As usual on Tuesdays and Thursdays the regular mixed badminton will go on while the tournaments and tryouts are taking place. Everyone is invited to take advantage of the excellent courts provided at (Continued on Page Four)

Inter-Company Competitions Held

'A' Squash Team 'C' and 'F' Companies Platoon 4, 12 Win Beats 'E' Squad Win in Badminton Volleyball Tests

The Inter-company Squash tournament at the Sir Arthur Currie Gym last night opened up another phase of the sports that have been lined up for the M.T.B. The schedule, which allows each company to play two lots of games, was started off by A and E companies, but the casual manner in which players say they will turn out and then do not, cost E's team a possible victory when Lindsay and Harvie failed to be on hand.

Anyway, the players who were present turned in a good exhibition. Laird of E company was defeated by Le Mesurier in three of the four games, but his loss was counterbalanced by his team-mates, Richer and McGibbon, both of E company. Richer, playing against Ian Ross, had to fight all the way though at the end winning all but one of the closely contested games. As Lindsay and Harvie of E team did not show up, Solomon and Russel, their opponents, won their games by default. In winning the first tournament of the Squash schedule.

Le Mesurier (A) defeated Laird (E), 15-16, 15-8, 15-10, 15-12; Richer (E) defeated Ian Ross (A), 15-12, 15-11, 15-17, 15-10; McGibbon (E) defeated Swinton (A), 15-10, 15-8, 15-8; Solomon and Russel (A's) won their games by default.

By winning the last doubles match of the evening "F" Company was able to eke out a victory over Macdonald College in the Inter-Company Badminton League, 12 to 8, last night in the gym. In the other contest of the evening "C" Company defeated "D" Company rather handily, 16 to 4.

With only one doubles match to be played, "F" Company was tied with Macdonald College, Macdonald having won two doubles and "F" Company one doubles and both singles. In the last match, J. Davis and A. McLeod, of "F" Company, conquered B. Bolster and A. McLeod of Macdonald College, 15-9 and 15-12. In the singles C. Morgan was defeated by H. Watts of "F" Company, 15-7, 15-12 and A. McLeod, also of "F" beat R. Hayler, 15-9, 15-11.

In the other three doubles matches the results were: J. Bulman and P. Halpern of Macdonald College beat W. Hewson and A. MacMinn, 15-2 and 15-4; B. Bartlett and P. Archibald also of Macdonald beat A. Langen and K. Dover, 15-0 and 15-5. "F" Company's other win was scored when K. West and H. Watts defeated R. Wallace and M. Stanley, 15-2, 15-4.

In the other contest "C" Company was victorious over "D" Company, 16 to 4. "D" Company started

There was a much improved turnout for Volleyball last night at the Gymnasium, only half the scheduled games being lost by default. Of the three games which were due to come off at 5 o'clock one was actually played, Platoon 12 and 4 winning by default over Platoon 17 and 9 respectively. Unsatisfied with this empty triumph they decided to anticipate the schedule and play each other. This they did and the game was level and fast, Platoon 4 noting out their opponents 15-12. Out of sheer good spirits they decided to play another in the course of which a "secret weapon" was produced. An over-enthusiastic player saw the ball coming straight at his face and heroically elected to return it by striking it hard with his dial. This only manoeuvre met with complete success and the point was worthily taken.

A notable exception to the general lethargy was Platoon 18, who had a full team plus three subs and one soldier to encourage them. To the slogan of "We gotta win something sometime" they won the first game 15-9, and although their opponents, Platoon 8, won the second and led 11-8 in the third the reinforcements turned the scale and they won 15-13.

Macdonald 1 went through Platoon score was 21-6, 21-13. Macdonald 2 expected resistance and were down seemed set to do the same, winning 8-13 in the second game, but in their first game against Platoon 20 covered and won 17-15 in some excitement. However they met with a tremorously fast play. Platoon 23 lost soon 16 with their usual ease. The 18 by default.

BRINGS GREATER EFFICIENCY TO AGRICULTURE

Today Empire industry prepares to produce as never before. Unfailing supplies of food are the first essential. Farm production must be geared to its highest efficiency. More farm machinery, trucks and tractors will swing into service. Breakdowns and costly delays must stop. Manufacturers are relying on Nickel Steel and Nickel Cast Iron to give extra strength, toughness and resistance to wear, breakage and corrosion.

All branches of Empire industry are being speeded up. Transportation systems purchase new locomotives and freight cars. Mines and automotive plants install new machinery. The lumbering, textile, meat packing and petroleum industries step for action. Canadian Nickel is employed in practically every machine and appliance to give long life and to prevent costly breakdowns.

Canadian Nickel, so vital to industry in normal times, becomes more vital than ever in gearing Empire industry to meet today's demands.

eccentric as the Teutonic mind might suppose. They have realized that to force a man to destroy his conscience is a violation of the most precious quality of human liberty and is indeed that crime which is blackest above all in the unique Nazi collection. I am not aware of the details of Mr. Stewart's case, nor the basis of the Board's decision, but if he was sincere, then it is quite plain that the authorities have utterly failed to realize the significance or implications of their decision. It is all very well to fight for democracy but a little foolish if the price is democracy itself. I believe this matter to be something of more than theoretical interest. Should we not stop and ask, "What price democracy?"

the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium.

With the arrival of so much cold weather during the past few days many of the coeds have begun to think of the possibilities of a good hockey season. This afternoon will see all the enthusiasts flocking towards R.V.C. at 3 p.m. when the first meeting will be held.

Negotiations are under way with two prospective coaches for the indoor classes. It is hoped that these training periods may commence next week in order to show the coeds who have never played before a few of the finer points of the game.

Outdoor hockey will begin after the Christmas holidays but if the cold weather keeps up there is a possibility that the coeds may get in some outside work before the vacation.

This afternoon's meeting will be chiefly taken up with the formation of arrangements for practice hours, and discussions about holding intramural or intersection competition. In order to facilitate matters, and make it easier for the Manager Marjorie Baty to organize the club it is hoped that there will be a large turnout.

The coed Fencers have been learning all about lunging and parrying and are still as enthusiastic as ever. They meet together every Friday afternoon from 4-6 p.m. in the Lower Gymnasium, and it is still hoped that two more hours may be obtained in order that they may all have the opportunity of receiving Maitre Leuchter's individual attention.

It is hoped that after Christmas the coeds may be able to take part in some intercity competition, and also to compete amongst themselves. Last year the coeds captured top honours in the Ladies Intercity League, winning a beautiful cup. This year they will have to defend their laurels, and if the enthusiasm continues this should not be difficult.

Elgie defeated H. Trotter and H. Morgan, 15-0 and 15-6. J. Asch and T. O'Neill beat H. Korman and A. Rudolph 15-6 and 15-10. J. Cash and Goldfarb trimmed Villiers and K. Walters 15-6 and 15-9.

Both singles were taken by "C" Company when R. Ball topped W. Ridewood 15-3 and 15-3, and A. Aiken defeated L. Smith by a similar count, 15-3 and 15-3.
